

LITERARY NOTES.

The Iliad is once more translated; this time by Mr. C. B. Cayley of England, in a meter of quantitative hexameter. It is already in print, and will be published immediately.

M. Paul Soleillet, in his "Avenir de la France en Afrique," narrating his travels in North Africa in 1872-74, speculates upon the feasibility of building a railroad from Algiers to Bulundjou and the fortification of the Sahara by dredging it from the sea.

Under the direction of the French Minister of Public Instruction, M. Clermont-Ganneau is now in London investigating all the alphabetical inscriptions in the Semitic languages to be found in the British Museum and in the collections of the Palestine Exploration Fund, and is making exact copies of them for a "Corpus Inscriptionum Semiticarum," undertaken by the Académie des Inscriptions et Belles Lettres.

M. Furnivall, in his "Chancer as Valet and Squire to Edward III." the Household Book of Edward III., with extracts from that of Edward III., which he is issuing for the Chancery Society, has a portion of Chancery, enlarged by the autotype process from Beccle's vignettes in the Harleian MS. The transcript is said to retain much of the tenderness and delicate expression of the original, though the lines and texture are necessarily much roughened and the light of the eye dimmed.

The Anglia, a new philological review (German), will make its appearance in April. The first division will consist of papers on literature, grammar, history of the language, &c., and will be edited by Prof. E. Weicker of Leipzig; the second division, devoted to book reviews and a bibliography of works in English, will be under charge of Dr. Moritz Trautmann. The staff of contributors includes Profs. Ten Brink, Grein, Heyne, Kissner, and a host of others.
